It is reported that many Turkish soldiers appear in battle dressed as Arabs. The object of this disguise, the Italian officers have concluded, is to put new heart into the tribesmen. A further explanation suggested is that the Turks, jealous of their prestige, wish to be in a position where a re-verse could be described as a defeat of the Arabs, and at the same time where they could claim a Turkish victory if the day went against the Italians. Notwithstanding the drast e measures of repression and punishment adopted by the Italian military authorities, isolated attempts at treachery among supposed friendly tribesmen continue. It is also suspected that the reports of dissensions among the Arabs of the interior are intended to deceive the Italians, as was the case in the Abyssinian campaign. Reports of Massacre Denied.

The reports from Tripoli that the Italians had mercilessly massacred unarmed Arabs, women and children, were officially denied today. It was explained by the government that in consequence of the treacherous murder of Italian soldiers it had become necessary to shoot some Arabs who were found bearing arms, and to purge the residential oasis by destroying houses.
